HOOVER SEEKS BUSINESS HELP

Wants Industries to Give Needed Statistics

Stresses Fact Service is to be Voluntary

Guide to Restraint of Trade Act Discussed

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Trade associations were asked today by Secretary Hoover to furnish voluntarily to the Commerce Department statistical information concerning industries to be published by the government for the benefit of business and the public generally.

Several hundred representatives of national and interstate trade associations met with Mr. Hoover to discuss means of making available to the Commerce Department data that the methods to be employed in supplying the statistics could be worked out with the associations desiring to co-operate with the government and stressed that the service was to be voluntary with no intent by the department to force associations to furnish statistics.

Considerable discussion was devoted to the application of the restraint of trade acts to the activities of trade associations and the idea was developed of the need of a guide to the law.

Chairman Cassell of the Federal Trade Commission told the conference that there should be a positive interpretation of the law governing trade association activity.

HELP FOR INDUSTRY

Senator Edges, Republican of New Jersey, declared that "what business wants to know, where it is at," industry should have, he asserted, the co-operative help of Congress.

He reported that he had just failed to obtain unanimous consent by the Senate to the creation of a joint Congressional commission to study business and co-operative organizations similar to the agricultural commission. He would push the project, however, he declared, adding that he looked for the creation of an agency to which trade associations could submit their problems and be told what they could do for existing statistics.

COAL STRIKE RANKS INCREASED 25,000

LEWIS DECLARES MINERS NOW OFF THE JOB TOTAL $65,000

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.)

INDIANAPOLIS, April 12.—Approximately 75,000 nonunion coal miners, an increase of 25,000 this week, have joined the union workers in the soft-coal fields of the country in their suspension of work which seeks to force operators to an interstate wage bargaining conference, according to the estimate tonight of President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America.

Increase, he said, brought the total number of idle mine workers to $65,000, by far the largest number ever engaged in a tie-up of the coal fields.

He said that the number of miners, approximately half of whom are not members of the union.

While the union's figures did not include any suspension as to the distribution by States of the men participating in the suspension of work, it was reported that the strength of the nonunion movement was in Central Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Mr. Lewis and other officials declined to comment on Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's announcement that he would not permit operators and miners to repeat acts which had led to indictments for violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. However, the union view here coincided with the statement in New York of Vice-President Murray of the miners' organization, who declared that government intervention to force the bituminous operators into a conference was the only means for ending the strike.

PANIC AS RED TROOPS APPROACH SUYAGINO

NATIVES FEAR AN ALLIANCE WITH JAPANESE

(BY CABLE-REUTERS DISPATCH.)

TOKIO, April 12.—An official communique from Vladivostok reports that the appearance of the Red south of Suifuang created a panic among the populace who feared that the advent indicated a secret understanding between the Reds and the Japanese. Some of the residents of Suifuang hurriedly prepared to leave. Order was barely restored upon the appearance of the Japanese troops. Vladivostok is calm, relying upon the good faith of the Japanese to protect the city while the white army is also preparing to offer defense.

An official report from Suifuang says the Reds there, 2000 strong, are well armed, having some artillery and two armored trains.

The Japanese from the Reds back, suffering comparatively small losses. Later they carried Alexandrovsk the Reds retreating and destroying bridges behind them.

VOTE TO AMEND VOLSTEAD LAW

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.)

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—Members of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce voted overwhelmingly in favor of amendment of the Volstead Act to permit the manufacture and sale of light wine and beer.

The amendment was taken at the request of the Grain Trade Association of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. It was announced today.

The vote was 80 in favor of amendment to 10 opposed. The total representing about 80 per cent of the membership.

Oregon Jersey Cow Now the New Champion

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.)

SALEM (Or.) April 12.—Another Oregon Jersey cow has broken a world record and now holds the championship for all mature animals, according to information telegraphed from New York by the American Jersey Cattle Club. She is Lady's Love, owned by S. J. McKee of Independence, Or.

The cow's record for the year ending last Friday night was 1047.84 pounds of butter fat. This beats by 1.88 pounds the previous record held by Plain Mary, a Maine cow.

In the Jersey list are eight classifications, beginning with cows under two years of age and ending with mature cows, those above five years old. Oregon now holds the records for seven of the eight classifications.

Before The Magic City Rises

You can never do it again. You will cherish it as a memory of having been in close personal touch with big things in the making and of having known just what the condition was before the change.

You can see the view now as it has been since the mountains and the sea were made. In another year the magic city will spread over the plateau.

For the first time you can attend Easter Sunrise Service in the grandeur of these surroundings. For the last time you can have the inspiration of this place apart with God before the homes of men encroach upon it.

To be on Peace Temple Hill is to worship. Come in prayerful but joyful thought, and worship—and sing the good old songs.

The wild flowers are almost as thick as the blades of grass at your feet. Thirty acres of poppies have also been planted for the occasion—we hope they will be out.

A chorus of several hundred voices from the bay district, Los Angeles, Pasadena and other towns will be supported by a fifty-piece orchestra. Cornets, playing Easter Carols, at Santa Monica Canyon and on the hill tops, will point the way. Trumpets will greet the rising sun from the mountain tops.

Come and let us spend an hour with God in this beautiful place, holding fast the simple and deeply spiritual significance of the day.

There is room for any number of automobiles. You may sit in them if you wish. But be sure to climb the hill and get the whole magnificent view before you leave.

Pacific Electric trains will leave the Hill Street Depot at 3:30 A. M. Busses and automobiles will transport passengers from the end of the car line to the meeting.

Easter Sunrise Service will be the first of the great meetings to be held there and in that sense will be a dedication of this place to the purpose for which it has been adopted.

Santa Monica Mountains

Hundreds of church publications all over country will be filled with news from Santa Monica and hundreds of thousands of people will come for the Summer or the Winter, and the chautauqua, educational and inspirational programs. Other thousands will come to make their permanent homes.

Santa Monica thus becomes the center of religious life and interest in the Southwest. A great convention hall will be located on the plateau just beyond where Beverly Boulevard crosses the Highway of Peace.

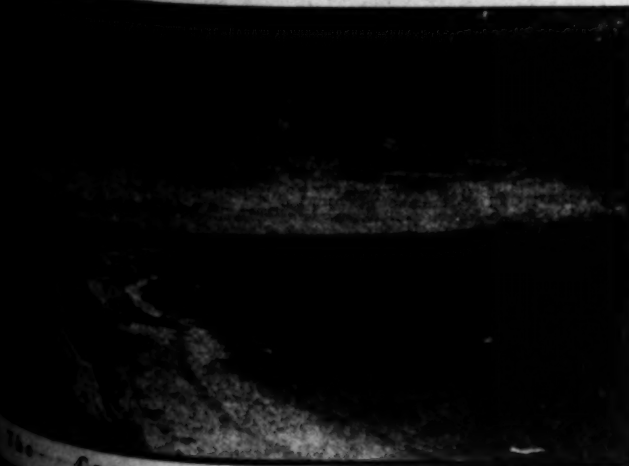

A peace temple is proposed to surmount Peace Temple Hill, to be dedicated to the cultivation of thought for international amity, thus widening the sphere of interest.

Santa Monica is a home place deluxe, where recreation, education and inspiration have a natural setting and reach high altitudes of development.

Whether a man have millions or modest means, whether he would spend a few hours or a lifetime, the first place for him to consider with great care is the thirty square miles of mountains, beach, canyons and plateaus from Ocean Park to Topanga and Sawtelle to the sea known here as Greater Santa Monica.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Noted Economist Here Sees Business on Upgrade; Branch Banking Controversy Breaks Out Afresh; No Lower Price Level for Coast

Heavy importations and light exportations will ultimately bring this country back to normalcy.

Business in the United States will be deflated by the time-honored law of supply and demand, and in no other way.

This is the opinion of John Moody, director of Moody's Investors Service, New York, who is recognized as one of the world's foremost economists.

Mr. Moody is studying business conditions on the Pacific Coast.

Within the last eighteen months he has been pretty much all over the business world, having visited Europe, Great Britain and the principal cities of the United States.

At the Ambassador Hotel yesterday he expressed the opinion that this country is, as a whole, passing through a constructive period which is leading to better times.

"Industrially the country has gotten through the bulk of its deflation," says Mr. Moody. "The showing made by his corporation for more than a year has mostly been losses. Big business has taken its losses and paid off its outstanding obligations."

The payment of these obligations has made money easy in the East and has had a wholesome effect upon the bond market. Generally speaking, business in the United States is pretty nearly sound, and is on the upgrade."

As evidence of this, Mr. Moody points out that the steel business, one of the basic industries, is experiencing a notable revival, while the railroads have taken a new grip and are showing strength.

This volume of business which the railroads crave will come from the moving of farm products, in large measure, if the farmers raise big crops this year and are able to sell them. Mr. Moody says that in the Mississippi Valley there are indications that the farmers will enjoy a prosperous year.

"One trouble with business is that retail prices have not reflected the deflation that wholesale prices have experienced," declares Mr. Moody. "I see no downward tendency in retail prices on the Pacific Coast, but in the East, and at least as far west as Chicago, they are beginning to sag heavily."

"Retail prices are still away up in many States. The only thing, it appears, which will bring them down where they ought to be is competition, and this competition is coming from Europe."

Many I saw the Krupp factories turning out safety razors of good steel, in imitation of the good ones with which I saw these razors selling in London for approximately 40 cents retail.

Europe struggles back into her feet. Her countries are inhabited by thrifty people who save all they can. They have gotten to the point where they can again feed and shelter themselves, and are producing more than they can consume.

"Not a heavy volume of these commodities has as yet come into this country, but the prospect of its arrival at no far distant date is having a wholesome effect upon retail prices from the consumer's standpoint."

Mr. Moody is here to address several organizations of bankers, bond men and other business groups. He says he has found more optimism on the Pacific Coast than is apparent elsewhere in the country, and attributes it to the fact that people here have a brighter viewpoint.

"In the West there appears to be an endless supply of spontaneous optimism," he declares. "Perhaps that is because this is a new country, where opportunities are everywhere and people take off their coats and serve their fortunes out of the great mass of raw material that lies all around them."

During his stay in Los Angeles, which will end into next week, Mr. Moody will be entertained by and address the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon to be the guest of honor at a banquet at the Ambassador featuring a group of Group No. 5 of the California Bankers' Association. On Monday he will talk to the Electric

Club at a luncheon and will address the Board of the Helman Commercial Trust & Savings Bank, left for San Francisco yesterday to attend a conference today of Federal and State bank officials, the result of which is expected to have an important bearing on the future of branch banking in this city.

This conference, scheduled to meet at the Helman Hotel, also includes the two Federal Reserve Bank officials from Los Angeles, to conduct an investigation into this subject. Jonathan R. Dodge, State Superintendent of Banks for California, and several representatives of Los Angeles banking institutions.

According to a director of the Helman bank, it is the intention of that bank to go on record at this conference as being opposed to the indiscriminate establishment of branch banks in this city.

The Helman Bank has seven city branches, and the intention of that bank to go on record at this conference as being opposed to the indiscriminate establishment of branch banks in this city.

He added that a majority of branch banks must be the result of a loss for a considerable period after their opening, and this is not conducive to economical management.

The Commercial National Bank, the first to inaugurate a system of branch institutions without State intermediaries, announced yesterday that the initial opening under the new dispensation would occur April 30 in temporary quarters at 3101 West Vine street.

This will be followed in a few days by the establishment of a branch at Bascom Avenue and East Avenue Fifty-six, Highland Park, and a little later by a bank at Bascom Avenue and Seventh street. F. C. Turman, for many years associated with the Union Bank No. 3101 West Vine street, has been appointed supervisor of branch offices.

TO ENCOURAGE THRIFT
Representatives of all State and most of the National banks in Los Angeles met yesterday afternoon to form an organization, the purpose of which shall be the encouragement of thrift among school children. An active propaganda campaign will be inaugurated.

It is agreed by lending bankers that there is a splendid field for such a work in conjunction with the school authorities. Small banks will be distributed to children expressing a desire to participate.

When the child has saved $1 he will take it to the depository of his choice and begin his training into the mysteries and allures of banking. He is to be encouraged to visit his bank and every effort will be made to make the youthful financier feel at home and that he is part of the institution.

The plan will be explained to the children and the advantages of establishing a banking connection fully demonstrated. It is tentatively proposed that when the pupil makes his first deposit he will receive a gift from the bank of his choice. The organization formed yesterday will be known as the Los Angeles Bankers' School Savings Association.

Announcement was made yesterday by Henry M. Robinson of the election of Henry L. Marston as a director of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, said by an official of that bank to be an important step in the business development of the Pacific-Southwest.

In addition to having been the active head of Blair & Co. of New York, Mr. Marston is interested in the City National Bank of Dallas and is a director of both the Bankers' Trust and the Guaranty Trust companies of New York. Mr. Marston became manager of the bond department of Blair & Co. in 1930; was made a member of the firm in 1932, and since that time his rise in the American business world has been rapid.

Until recently Mr. Marston was not only a director in many financial institutions, but was also on the directorate of Borden's Condensed Milk Company, both in the United States and in Canada; was president of the Pacific Coast Coal and Oil Company. He is now a director of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, the Western Maryland Railway Company, the St. Louis Iron Mountains and Southern Railway Company, the Clinchfield Coal Company, and the Goldschmidt Dairymen Company.

Mr. Marston served for a number of years as trustee of the General Educational Board, and is a trustee of Bishop's Baptist College, Brown University and of Yassar College, and a patron of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the New York Botanical Garden.

UTILITY FINANCING
Adding further emphasis to the soundness of Southern California Utility Company bond issues, comes the announcement from Blyth, Witter & Co. that the year 5 1/2 per cent first mortgage bonds of Southern Counties Gas Company have been approved as legal investment for California Savings Banks. Charles R. Blyth, head of the firm of Blyth, Witter & Co., is now in Los Angeles on a tour of inspection of this utility's property.

Southern Counties Gas Company has a territory divided into three main units, first, Santa Barbara, Ventura and vicinity; second, Santa Monica, Sawtelle and vicinity; third, Long Beach, San Pedro, Anaheim, Fullerton and Pomona districts. Through-out this rapidly growing section the company supplies cheap, natural gas, obtained from diversified and long-lived fields.

According to Mr. Blyth the favorable action of the board approving this company's bonds as legal investment for savings banks comes as a result of a strong but conservative financial policy. To illustrate the company's conservative policies, Mr. Blyth points out that it has established an annual reserve fund which, with nominal additional capital expenditure, will provide artificial gas plants as rapidly as the entire territory should require.

A comparison of earnings for 1931 with those for 1930 shows a 45 per cent increase.

LIBERTY BONDS ADVANCE

Rapid Climb of Practically All Issues to Par or Higher Is Feature on Financial Market

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES
EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH

NEW YORK, April 12.—The event of today's financial markets was the rapid advance of practically all the Liberty bonds to par or higher. In the case of the third and fourth 4 1/2 per cent issues, the price was reached for the first time in their open-market history; for the other issues, the advance was touched by the 3 1/2 per cent or by the so-called first-second 4 1/2 per cent issues.

Cancellation of the long depreciation, which two years ago brought some of our Liberty bonds to 15 and 20 per cent below what the war-time subscriber had paid for them was a logical sequel to the 16 per cent rate fixed on Tuesday by the treasury for its short-term loans, but it is none the less an interesting landmark in our post-war financial history. Its effect on the mind and attitude of investors, large or small, will be very great and so will its effect on the program of refunding the government's war debt. The bond market as a whole reflected these incidents by very much the largest transactions of the year and general rise in prices.

No change was made in the reserve bank's rate, which goes to confirm belief that the managers have adopted the policy of keeping the discount charge above open-market discounts. The course of the stock market, in which the day's business again exceeded a million shares, indicated that the favorable news in the money market had been used as a basis on which to realize speculative profits rather than as a motive for new speculative buying. There were numerous advances on a point or two, but these were offset by almost equally numerous declines of the same proportions and the market closed with much irregularity. Nearly all the railway shares ended lower.

Starting exchange remained all of Tuesday's loss, while French and Italian rates went into new high ground for the year, the franc's best price being the highest since 1919.

Today's cable statement of England's foreign trade in March shows large increase over February in both exports and imports; but the expansion of imports was the greater, as a result of which February's almost unprecedented small "import surplus" of $68,000 is reduced by one of $12,140,000. Even this, however, compares with a monthly average excess of imports amounting to $22,120,000 in 1921 and to $22,230,000 in 1919, and it is close to the prewar figure of $11,640,000 of last month comparing with $17,892,000 in March of 1914 and with a monthly average of $11,159,000 in 1913.

The influence of the merchandise trade balance is to increase still operative on the sterling exchange market, even though we received no gold from England during March as against our import of $5,300,000 in February. In view of the part which England's diminished foreign trade is now playing in Lloyd George's program at Geneva, it is more than probable that the balance of trade will be a factor in the value of the pound in the near future.

Exports of British products of $12,000,000, or 44 per cent, while

This will be followed in a few days by the establishment of a branch at Bascom Avenue and East Avenue Fifty-six, Highland Park, and a little later by a bank at Bascom Avenue and Seventh street. F. C. Turman, for many years associated with the Union Bank No. 3101 West Vine street, has been appointed supervisor of branch offices.

TO ENCOURAGE THRIFT
Representatives of all State and most of the National banks in Los Angeles met yesterday afternoon to form an organization, the purpose of which shall be the encouragement of thrift among school children. An active propaganda campaign will be inaugurated.

It is agreed by lending bankers that there is a splendid field for such a work in conjunction with the school authorities. Small banks will be distributed to children expressing a desire to participate.

When the child has saved $1 he will take it to the depository of his choice and begin his training into the mysteries and allures of banking. He is to be encouraged to visit his bank and every effort will be made to make the youthful financier feel at home and that he is part of the institution.

The plan will be explained to the children and the advantages of establishing a banking connection fully demonstrated. It is tentatively proposed that when the pupil makes his first deposit he will receive a gift from the bank of his choice. The organization formed yesterday will be known as the Los Angeles Bankers' School Savings Association.

Announcement was made yesterday by Henry M. Robinson of the election of Henry L. Marston as a director of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, said by an official of that bank to be an important step in the business development of the Pacific-Southwest.

In addition to having been the active head of Blair & Co. of New York, Mr. Marston is interested in the City National Bank of Dallas and is a director of both the Bankers' Trust and the Guaranty Trust companies of New York. Mr. Marston became manager of the bond department of Blair & Co. in 1930; was made a member of the firm in 1932, and since that time his rise in the American business world has been rapid.

Until recently Mr. Marston was not only a director in many financial institutions, but was also on the directorate of Borden's Condensed Milk Company, both in the United States and in Canada; was president of the Pacific Coast Coal and Oil Company. He is now a director of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, the Western Maryland Railway Company, the St. Louis Iron Mountains and Southern Railway Company, the Clinchfield Coal Company, and the Goldschmidt Dairymen Company.

Mr. Marston served for a number of years as trustee of the General Educational Board, and is a trustee of Bishop's Baptist College, Brown University and of Yassar College, and a patron of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the New York Botanical Garden.

UTILITY FINANCING
Adding further emphasis to the soundness of Southern California Utility Company bond issues, comes the announcement from Blyth, Witter & Co. that the year 5 1/2 per cent first mortgage bonds of Southern Counties Gas Company have been approved as legal investment for California Savings Banks. Charles R. Blyth, head of the firm of Blyth, Witter & Co., is now in Los Angeles on a tour of inspection of this utility's property.

Southern Counties Gas Company has a territory divided into three main units, first, Santa Barbara, Ventura and vicinity; second, Santa Monica, Sawtelle and vicinity; third, Long Beach, San Pedro, Anaheim, Fullerton and Pomona districts. Through-out this rapidly growing section the company supplies cheap, natural gas, obtained from diversified and long-lived fields.

According to Mr. Blyth the favorable action of the board approving this company's bonds as legal investment for savings banks comes as a result of a strong but conservative financial policy. To illustrate the company's conservative policies, Mr. Blyth points out that it has established an annual reserve fund which, with nominal additional capital expenditure, will provide artificial gas plants as rapidly as the entire territory should require.

A comparison of earnings for 1931 with those for 1930 shows a 45 per cent increase.

LIBERTY BONDS ADVANCE

Rapid Climb of Practically All Issues to Par or Higher Is Feature on Financial Market

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES
EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH

NEW YORK, April 12.—The event of today's financial markets was the rapid advance of practically all the Liberty bonds to par or higher. In the case of the third and fourth 4 1/2 per cent issues, the price was reached for the first time in their open-market history; for the other issues, the advance was touched by the 3 1/2 per cent or by the so-called first-second 4 1/2 per cent issues.

Cancellation of the long depreciation, which two years ago brought some of our Liberty bonds to 15 and 20 per cent below what the war-time subscriber had paid for them was a logical sequel to the 16 per cent rate fixed on Tuesday by the treasury for its short-term loans, but it is none the less an interesting landmark in our post-war financial history. Its effect on the mind and attitude of investors, large or small, will be very great and so will its effect on the program of refunding the government's war debt. The bond market as a whole reflected these incidents by very much the largest transactions of the year and general rise in prices.

No change was made in the reserve bank's rate, which goes to confirm belief that the managers have adopted the policy of keeping the discount charge above open-market discounts. The course of the stock market, in which the day's business again exceeded a million shares, indicated that the favorable news in the money market had been used as a basis on which to realize speculative profits rather than as a motive for new speculative buying. There were numerous advances on a point or two, but these were offset by almost equally numerous declines of the same proportions and the market closed with much irregularity. Nearly all the railway shares ended lower.

Starting exchange remained all of Tuesday's loss, while French and Italian rates went into new high ground for the year, the franc's best price being the highest since 1919.

Today's cable statement of England's foreign trade in March shows large increase over February in both exports and imports; but the expansion of imports was the greater, as a result of which February's almost unprecedented small "import surplus" of $68,000 is reduced by one of $12,140,000. Even this, however, compares with a monthly average excess of imports amounting to $22,120,000 in 1921 and to $22,230,000 in 1919, and it is close to the prewar figure of $11,640,000 of last month comparing with $17,892,000 in March of 1914 and with a monthly average of $11,159,000 in 1913.

The influence of the merchandise trade balance is to increase still operative on the sterling exchange market, even though we received no gold from England during March as against our import of $5,300,000 in February. In view of the part which England's diminished foreign trade is now playing in Lloyd George's program at Geneva, it is more than probable that the balance of trade will be a factor in the value of the pound in the near future.

Exports of British products of $12,000,000, or 44 per cent, while

Imports were larger by $10,900,000, or 16 per cent, but that the rise in average British prices during the intervening period, as shown by the London Economist's index number, has been 60 per cent. The British Board of Trade figures, lately estimated, after allowing for the change in prices, that the country's import trade of the year 1931 was in quantity only 14 per cent of that of 1913 and its export of British products only 45 per cent.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

NEW YORK, April 13.—Buoyancy marked the close of the stock market during today's intermediate stages, the later dealings being characterized by considerable irregularity. Sales of about 1,400,000 shares constituted a record for the current movement.

Lower money rates, consecutive indications of industrial and commercial betterment, and higher interest rates for such basic commodities as the oil, pig iron and finished iron and steel, were among the developments which continued to stimulate bullish sentiment and diminish the short interest. The one discordant or pessimistic note was sounded by the coal strike.

Coal shares were dull and rails, as a whole, contributed only insignificantly to the day's business. Mexican oil was sold on rumors of a disagreement between that government and American interests regarding export taxes, and steady profit-taking detracted from the strength of leading motors.

Gains of 1 to almost 5 points during the forenoon were made largely under the auspices of equipment, domestic oil, junior steel, leather, paper specialties and shipping, tobacco and chain store issues. Woolworth rising on the declaration of the extra dividend.

The only sharp reversal of the session came in the final hour, when Mexican Petroleum fell almost five points from its earlier best, and caused other leaders to react one to three points. The one striking exception was American Locomotive, which forged steadily ahead, closing at a gain of 4 points. Call loans opened at 4-1/4 per cent, but the light demand at that rate caused a reduction to 4 per cent in the second hour. More time funds were placed at 4 1/2 per cent for thirty and sixty days, but longer dates held around 4-1/4 per cent.

Reversing yesterday's trend, the German rate was the only exception to the higher level registered by a majority of today's foreign exchange quotations. Demand bills were strong at 4.41 1/4, allied remittances gained four to eight points, and greater strength was shown by Czechoslovakian bills. The Greek rate was unchanged but dealings in remittances were nominal on the unsettled conditions reported from Athens.

This is the time when a lot of the merry gardeners of the numerous Southland are doing some of their finest Mary Gardening.

PROPERTY DAMN

Marcel Aquino is back in England and says she will now run for Parliament. It does begin to look as if England would never know peace or a night's rest.

BEACH COMBERS

In a Florida city the one-piece bathing suit was the burning issue in the local election and the candidate who favored it was elected Mayor by a comfortable majority. Evidently the voters of the town know a good thing when they see it.

GETTING AT THE BOTTOM

They have a school of criminology in Seattle and some day these in charge hope to learn what it is that makes folks steal money. Is it a germ or is it environment? As soon as the true source of crime can be located the statements at Washington will not be so far off.

LIGHT AN AIR

Air is a light thing to talk about, but the professor tells us that the quantity of air that passes through a pair of human lungs every day would weigh more than thirty pounds if it were hoisted on the hay scales. Hot air is lighter than cold. That is why the Democrats campaign speeches carry so little weight.

EASY TO QUIT

Politicians who are figuring on a radio campaign and are preparing for an unlimited broadcasting of speeches and campaigns material by wireless should not forget that radio is the easiest thing in the world to turn off. There is no way of making a man listen if he doesn't want to. He cannot only hang up, but he can make blighting and blithering remarks in the doing. When there is an alarm the auditors may all pull in their ears.

THE VACANT CHAIR

Lloyd George, in his speech at the Genoa conference, remarked that it was a man from Genoa who discovered America. He hoped and expected that something would now happen in Genoa that would enable America to discover Europe. Thirty-four nations were there gathered in an epoch-making conference. All the countries concerned in the World War were officially represented, save Turkey and the United States. Uncle Sam has been made very conspicuous by his absence.

THE STRONG ARM

The prohibition enforcement service is getting down to brass tacks. It is now demanding from the government the use of armored cars and machine guns in the war against bootleggers. It also is bringing into service some bombing planes, submarines, destroyers and hydroplanes. With the support of the battle fleet, the Army and Navy and a border patrol they should be able to put a crimp in the activities of the rum-runners. There can be no hint of disarmament while the smugglers are running wild. Let no guilty man escape.

WORLD WOMEN

The dean of history at one of the big colleges declares that women will rule the world in 1977. That is hardly worth waiting fifty years for. There are a lot of guys with forty-six-inch chests who think the dames are putting up a pretty good bluff at running the world in 1927. They have ruled it before and the presumption is that they will do it again. The professor doesn't have to advertise any particular date. So far as we can figure it out a world ruled by women will not be much different from one run by the boys of Hesse Company No. 1. Why wait until 1977?

KEEP AN EYE KEEL

It should not be necessary to take up a collection or pass the hat for the purpose of maintaining Los Angeles as a law-abiding community. The people are willing to be regularly taxed to keep the machinery of justice in motion and no special assessment or extra contribution should be required. If any man or organization creates a special fund in the name of law and order no grave objection would be made, but it should be neither essential nor advisable. The city should be completely self-sufficient and administer justice as a part of the day's work. When special funds for specific purposes are created other matters that are of equal or greater importance may be shirked.

SAME OLD STORY

According to the scientists at Washington the temperature of the country is not changing. Many have claimed that it was moderating and that the old-fashioned weather, with its six weeks of sleighing in March, has gone. The figures of the Weather Bureau do not indicate any material change. They have tables that give the average temperature for each of the ten-year periods since 1790 and there is not a difference of one degree in all that time. Of course, there have been hard winters and many occurrences of climate, but the deadly average has been maintained through the flight of centuries. A good many people find it warmer these winters because they are living in steam-heated flats, but good old Boreas is keeping up the same old game.

A NOTHER ONE FOR HOLLYWOOD

Having pulled up stakes in New York and closed its eastern studios, the Selznick motion-picture company is en route to Los Angeles to begin production here with its various stars and directors.

This makes the vote just about unanimous. Within the year Paramount has closed its gigantic Long Island studio; the Talmores have closed all their New York activities and moved to Hollywood; and various other lesser motion-picture units have abandoned the attempt to make motion pictures in the East.

The decision in favor of Southern California is not due to any sentimental preference or to any blandishments on the part of Chamber of Commerce propaganda. It is a plain case of the triumph of the fittest place.

Pictures can be made in California cheaper and better, in less time and with less incidental difficulty.

The elements that naturally enter into the making of pictures are: sunlight, proximity of good "locations," supply of good actors and general labor conditions.

In all these particulars Los Angeles has an emphatic superiority.

It would be worth while for producers to operate in this country if there were no other considerations than the single one of climate. The absolute assurance of no rainy days during the summer season saves picture producers thousands of dollars.

In the Eastern States the director never knows when he summons a huge company of "extras" at heavy expense whether or not he will be able to use them or whether his money will be thrown away by reason of sudden rainstorms.

Probably no other city in the world offers such an interesting variety of "locations." Not only is it possible to find Italian villas, castles, fashionable New York apartment-houses right in Hollywood; but the director can find the desert, the mountains, the seashore or scenes that suggest Arabia and Palestine within a half-hour's automobile ride. It is actually true that better snow scenes can be taken in California than in New York.

The physical location of Los Angeles, with no ferries to cross or walls to find, makes these things more accessible by hours of time than in the eastern producing centers.

Another element that makes producing easy and profitable in Los Angeles is the subsidiary line of industries that have grown up here with the growth of the picture industry. There are agencies where any kind of an actor can be had from a Shakespearean leading man with an international reputation to a real Mexican bandit with no scotch on his gun. Not only are the actors easily accessible, but the expensive "properties" are to be had more readily.

For instance, there are stores which make a specialty of renting birds to motion-picture studios; there are agencies where the "Wild West" is rented out at so much a day—anything from bucking broncos with their riders to real stage coaches.

Perhaps the most compelling reason for producing in Los Angeles is the freedom from the tyrannous labor conditions of the East, where an expensive production is likely to be held up at any moment by the vagaries of the labor union.

The Selznick company has plans involving the spending of about $4,000,000 in Los Angeles. It has come to a good place.

A BEACON LIGHT OF GENIUS

A new saga is being written at Genoa. The history of the world is being written there. Some of the diplomats taking part in the discussions at that never-to-be-forgotten conference have already written their names upon the tablets of immortality.

Among those who have qualified themselves for the tablets of immortality is M. Theunis, the Premier of Belgium. He has immortalized himself by making one of the most truly amazing suggestions in the history of diplomacy.

In order to properly survive the deed which must forevermore make him an object of awe to historians one should first contemplate the settings and the background.

All Western Europe—in fact, all civilization—faces one supreme danger.

This danger is the possibility that Russia and Germany may form an alliance against the rest of the world.

With Russia's great natural resources, her strategic position and her enormous man power, coupled to Germany's military genius and her natural strategic advantages, the combination would be one to threaten the very foundations of the civilized world.

The knowledge of this peril lurks in the heart of every diplomat in Europe. In fact, the delicate, difficult and arduous problem of continental diplomacy is to contrive to alienate these burly giants from one another.

Until now this alienation has been accomplished without great difficulty because of Germany's natural abhorrence of socialism. A combination of Germany with the Lenin-Trotsky government is unthinkable.

In spite of sporadic revolutions and disturbances, staid, orderly Germany has no stomach for Bolshevism.

But if it is true that Russia has thrown up her hands and surrendered—if Russia has turned her back on Bolshevism—if she has thrown off socialism like an old discarded coat—

Then it is all different. The danger suddenly becomes acute and threatening. Into this surcharged condition, loaded with dynamic and danger, hurries the genius of Premier Theunis of Belgium with a brilliant idea.

At the session on Tuesday he cut the Gordian knot by making a formal protest against admitting either the Russian or German delegates to the important committee of the conference. He declared, according to an Associated Press dispatch, that the "Germans were unworthy of taking part in the work of a committee of such importance in association with the representatives of honest democracies."

In other words, Premier Theunis's great diplomatic genius at once perceived that the correct way to prevent an alliance between Germany and Russia was to throw them both out of the councils of the nations, leaving them in a night where there would be no other possible course for them but to make a combination.

Lloyd George, upon hearing this truly amazing flash of diplomatic inspiration, announced in disgust that, if that spirit was to prevail, the safest thing for all countries would be to break up the conference and go home.

LITERARY NASTINESS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

The critic of London's Saturday Review is frigidly disgusted about the increasing number of "dirty books" written by women—bad morals, bad taste, bad manners, bad grammar, bad words and bad principles. He gives a few choice examples that offer painful evidence of his indictment. They are quite conclusively bad.

He ascribes all this nastiness to the "exaggerated individualism of the feminist movement, which opposes itself to the great unifying influences of the finest civilizations."

He shudders to record that in these books "all the women intellectuals smoke, drink and say damn on the least excuse," which happily is not shocking in the male intellectual, or even in nice domesticated papers without any special claims to sophistication. If there had been, of course, these great unifying influences of the finest civilizations would have been disrupted long ago. Moreover, of course, "realism" with all its gaudy details, could never have survived in the literary classes—written by men long before women had encroached upon the literary field.

One of the indictments brought against the horrid female writers is that "gynecological details are given suitable alone for a midwife text-book"—which is, of course, peculiarly indecent—except when it is exploited by a Tolstol in "Anna Karenina" or by a Flaubert in "Madame Bovary," for instance, or by a Theodore Dreiser in "The Genius."

When an objectionable female writes a biographical novel setting forth what purports to be unvarnished realism "chastity in this dreary, dull, sordid atmosphere is, either tacitly or by actual expression, regarded as an exploded theory," but when a mighty male intellectual like Theodore Dreiser or Maxim Gorky or Andreiev or Chekhov writes of these things—chastity and the great unifying influences of the finest civilizations remain nobly, gloriously intact.

While admitting the nastiness of the examples of female literary lewdness, aggravated by their imperfect manners and grammar, we may still find some excuse for the misguided ladies. For it really would appear that they have gone to some of the most enduring masculine literary classics for their models. True, they never rise to the princely superlative explicitness of a Boccaccio or a Rabelais and frequently, alas, are distinctly shy on the saving grace of humor, but they have probably done their best. And it is quite within the range of possibility that in so doing they were appealing to a masculine audience. At all events, all the books are published by men, and, if we are to believe the critic himself, chiefly read by men. Probably in their lofty desire to "understand women," of course. Even the high-minded critic seems to have read them with a remarkable thoroughness.

"Marriage," he says, "is sexualized and vulgarized and painted in its most sordid details"—exclusive, by the women writers, of course. Which is, of course, outrageous. Every man who reads them must be amazed and shocked to learn that such things could be. In fact, he simply could not believe it—not even if he were a Nat Goodwin or a Landru or a Bluebeard Watson. We have to admit that, under an exclusively masculine influence, before the odious feminists came into being—marriage was maintained on the loftiest, most virtuous footing, especially and particularly in literature. What could be more idealistic than the married life of Moses and Aaron or of the hands of Pharaoh? Or of the reasonably faithful Granger and Gargamelle at the hands of Rabelais?

All the same, I am conscious of being grateful that "The Pretty Lady" and "The Genius" and "The Dark Flower" and that profusion of mean, hypocritical biographies were not written by females. I am ashamedly delighted in ascribing it to one of those Russian high-brows that our great critics have heralded as a literary masterpiece! It deals largely with incest, so some emancipated female must have written it.

Am I defending the horrid female writers? Heaven forbid. They are all the lefty-minded critics says they are. When literary psychology is essential to the unifying influences of the finest civilizations by all means leave it to the men that can perpetrate it with impunity. It makes such a difference whether a Havelock Ellis or a Christabel Pankhurst deals with such a disgusting subject as psychology.

THE STRENGTH OF THE NAVIES
 (From a speech by Senator Lodge.)

The United States has seven modern post-Julian vessels. We had five, but owing to the change brought about by the retention of the Mutus, we have seven. The Maryland, California, Tennessee, Idaho and Mississippi are on this list, but under the arrangement made on the retention of the Mutus we have also the North Dakota and the Delaware, which are at the foot of the list. The oldest ships are dropped and are replaced by two of the West Virginia class, which are of the same class as the Maryland. Their speed is twenty-one knots. They are all battle ships and not battle cruisers, and they average, as I am informed by the Navy Department, a somewhat higher rate of speed than battleships of other nations, because they are much more modern. They are all post-Julian ships, which means that there are changes in their construction and building brought about by the battle of Jutland.

In England there are four battle cruisers which are indicated at the bottom of the list, the Hornet, the Renown, the Repulse and the Tiger. The Hood is a new post-Julian vessel of 45,000 tons and thirty-one knots, but her guns are fifteen-inch, while the guns on our vessels are sixteen-inch. Her weight of metal thrown is less than that thrown by ships like the Maryland and West Virginia.

There are also five vessels which I believe are battle cruisers of earlier make, but at all events battleships, of as high speed as twenty-five knots estimated, but there are none of them that are as modern as our post-Julian ships, and their weight of metal thrown is much less than ours. They have sixteen-inch guns.

National and American Leagues Open Series With Much Eclat; President Pitches First Ball

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
NEW YORK, April 12.—President Harding threw the first ball at Washington today and started the Nationals and Yankees on their way in the 1922 championship race. The New Yorkers celebrated the event by dropping their first contest. The Solons were the first to score in the American League 1922 dash when a marker was scored in the first chapter off Pitcher Jones.

A record throng of 25,000 persons jammed the stands in the capital ball park to watch the proceedings.

Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, slugging stars of the Yankee team, who are under suspension, saw the game from the grand stand. Walter Johnson, son of the Washington pitcher and mascot of the team, saw part of the contest from an elevated point of vantage, sitting on President Harding's knee.

At the Polo Grounds, before one of the largest crowds that ever gathered to witness the launching of a new season, the Giants fell before the attack of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The contest developed into a torrid duel between the two rival southpaws, Reuther and Nehf.

Neither Manager John McGraw or Boss Miller Huggins of the two major-league pennant winners of 1921 was predicting this year that his team would land in front, but each foresees close and hard-fought races.

At Cincinnati Groves-Cleveland Alexander appeared on the mound for the Chicago Cubs and headed the Reds a stiff heating.

Bobby Veach, Detroit left fielder, playing against Cleveland, hammered Guy Morton's offering over the right-field fence in the fifth inning for the initial circuit drive of the season.

Joe Cochrane of Boston scored the first run of the season in the National League at Philadelphia.

GOLFER'S DAUBER AWAY DOWN

Well, folks, when a golfer that's as fine a player as I am goes out expecting to win the Southern California championship, and then the first round by some farmer from over by Saugus that don't know a splick from a scopy shovel, the only thing left to do is to shoot yourself—and I ought to use black powder and rock salt, so as not to waste good ammunition.

I've always been like all these golfers that get the habit so they can't quit, and then keep bragging about what a fine eagle golf is, so as to get more victims addicted to the so-called game, like the fact that I lost his ball and tried to get all the rest to buy theirs, too. But now I'm done, I suppose I'll play it out in the defeated sight, so as not to get the stigma of a quitter, but then—I'm done for good, and in the meantime I'm going to expose this so-called pastime, so as to keep any more unfortunate from getting the habit.

In the first place they tell you you can make fine friends on the links. Well, maybe you can, but you can't keep them after you make them. In ordinary life if a man borrows your automobile or tries to steal your wife, you laugh at him and pass it over. But on the links if your friend walks around while you mow your putts, you fret at the mouth and say, "You great, big, overgrown, slow-footed, ambidextrous hunk of worse than nothing, I hope I never see your shadow again." And pretty soon the golfer hasn't got any friends.

They say golf keeps a good, healthy color in your cheeks, and maybe it does, but it takes a millionaire to keep his locker supplied with the real stuff, and if you use the kind with the wood in it, you'll soon have the undertaker's favorite color in your cheeks.

And then they rave about being out in the open where the flowers are blooming and the pretty little birds sing. But what under heaven could be worse than the blooming flowers a foot deep all around your ball, when you need a good out to save two-bits on the hole? And who wants to hear a noisy bird yalling at the top of his voice when you are so nervous you throw a fit on every green, anyhow?

And every once in a while you see some husky-looking dumb-bell that they say is about to die a few months ago and the doctors all prescribed golf for him, and look at him now. And then you play with the gink, and he tells you what is the matter with your golf, and you come in and say, "For Pete's sake, let's either abolish golf or shoot all the doctors, no that nature can take its course."

No, sir, the only virtue I can see in this so-called recreation is that it keeps a man away from his family. A man that will play golf doesn't deserve a family, and they're likely relieved to have him away.

Well, I suppose you'll all say I'll be playing again soon, but his time I'm going to fool you. Of course, if I get to golfing again, and get to stinking putts on these upside-down greens at Pasadena, and win the defeated eight, maybe—well, we'll see.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
PARIS, April 12.—The French Olympic committee has decided to hold the 1924 Olympic Games at Colombes, a suburb of Paris. It was announced today. It will organize the games without the help of the Paris municipal council and stage them on the grounds of the Racing Club of France, which has undertaken to build a stadium.

In the upper left panel we introduce Wheeler (Doc) Johnston in the uniform of a servant of Cornelius McGillicuddy, otherwise Connie Mack—all of which is but another team of saying that Johnston, an erstwhile first sacker of the Cleveland Indians, has become a member of the lowly and despised Athletics. In the upper right appears Rogers Hornsby, second baseman of the Cardinals, and champion batman of the National League, who has settled his differences with his employers and will receive $12,500 for three years' hard labor on the diamond. Below is shown Ray Kohnen, who, the training-camp experts say, is one of the flashiest and fastest rookies they have seen in many a season. He will play in the outfield by the Pittsburgh aggregation. Oxy Entered in Seattle's Big Relay Carnival
SEATTLE (Wash.) April 12.—Twelve Pacific Coast universities and colleges have already accepted invitations to participate in the University of Washington's third annual relay carnival, to be held at the stadium here April 29. A number of others are expected to enter.

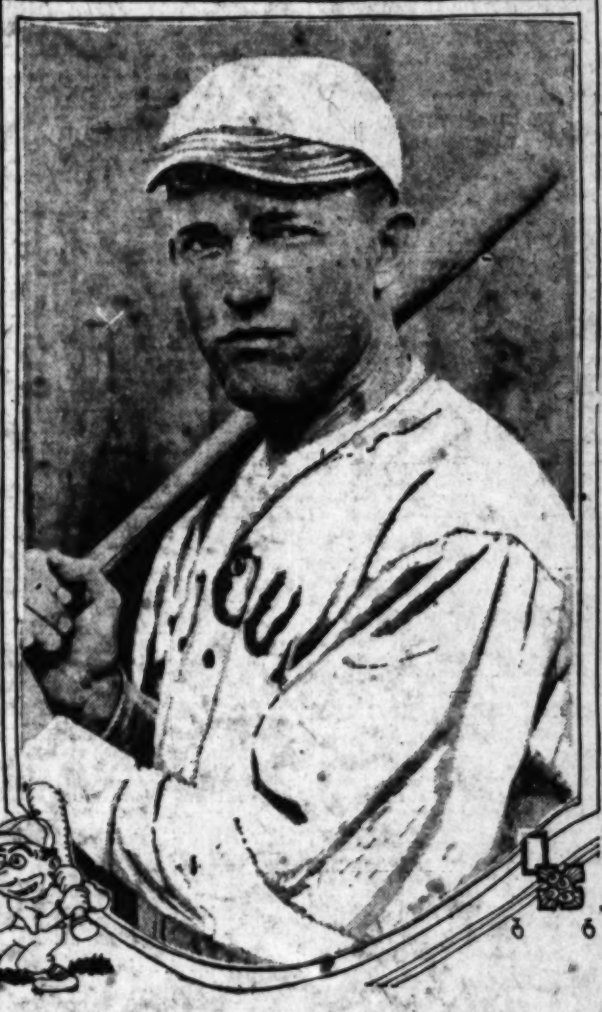

The schools that have already placed men in the entry list are Oregon Agricultural College, University of Oregon, Washington State College, Occidental College, University of Idaho, University of Montana, Montana Wesleyan College, Pacific University, College of Puget Sound, Redlands University, Gonzaga University and the University of British Columbia.

The University of California has definitely declined to participate and it is believed the University of Southern California will not be represented. Stanford and Williams universities and Whitman College are expected to enter later.

The meet, it has been announced, will be divided into two classes, the "A" division including all schools members of the Pacific Coast or Northwest conference, having more than 250 students. The "B" division will include all schools not members of either of the two conferences.

Cubs Defeated, but Hollywood Nine Wins Out
SAN DIEGO, April 12.—Driving the delivery of Baldridge and Schuster for nine hits and bunched these with errors by the Cubs, the San Diego High School baseball team this afternoon defeated the University of California, Southern Branch, of Los Angeles, 6 to 0, at the Stadium. Bobby Green gave only four hits and hurled in superb fashion for the locals. Adams featured at bat with a home run and two doubles.

MISSOURIANS DUE IN NORTH

Fifteen St. Louis Athletes Will Arrive in Berkeley Today for Track Meet With Bears

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Fifteen track stars, standard-bearers of the Gold and Black of the University of Missouri, accompanied by Coach Simpson and F. L. Spurling, secretary to the graduate manager, who is handling the trip, are due to arrive in Berkeley in the morning at 9:45 o'clock. The Missourians will be a party in the big intercollegiate meet of the year when they meet the University of California track team on the Berkeley oval on Saturday afternoon.

Although coming to the western coast a day later than scheduled the Tigers will have two days to participate in light practice before the meet on University Day. They will be greeted at the train by Bear track and A. S. U. C. officers. Tonight they will be guests at the famous rally and tomorrow an auto trip is planned in their honor.

HAMILTON IS STAR
The one scintillating "beauty" of the visiting squad is Brutus Hamilton, captain, javelin thrower, discus thrower, shot putter, pole vaulter, high jumper and broad jumper. When necessary the versatile Bruce can be called upon to negotiate the high and low hurdles and can rip off a relay lap which is said to be in keeping with the time of the better than ordinary relay runner. Here are a few of his American decathlon championships: Pole vault, 12 feet, high jump, 5 feet 11 inches; shot put, 42 feet 10 3/4 inches; broad jump, 22 feet 1 inch; discus, 110 feet; javelin, 115 feet.

Two other notable characters on the Missouri roster are Waddell, hurdler and high jumper, and Maxwell, middle distance and relay man. The former has been benefited by the coaching of Bob Simpson, who at one time traveled the high jumps in 14 3/4 seconds. Waddell also does 8 feet 1 inch in the high jump. Maxwell is looked upon to win the half-mile, as he has a record of 1:58 4/5, and has been galloping the distance consistently under two minutes this year.

A STRONG TEAM
Coach Walter Christie has selected one of the strongest and best-balanced fifteen-man teams ever chosen to represent California, vying for honors with Hamilton in the field will be Johnny Merchant who uses some things as good as the decathlon champion and other things a little better. Merchant will also run the century.

RILEYS TO HARBOR
In fifth place and but a few games behind the leaders, T-Bone Riley's crack bowling team is out to do a lot of damage tomorrow night, when it journeys to San Pedro and plays the Landrier Taxis.

CHARLIE PADDOCK LEAVES FOR HOME
(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
MONOCLUC, April 12.—Charlie W. Paddock, world's champion sprinter, left here today aboard the steamer Magos for his Los Angeles home. Paddock has been visiting in Honolulu for more than a week and in an Amateur Athletic Union track meet, April 1, tied his own world mark of 1:55 in the 100-yard dash.

JACOB MAY IS ANGELIC POISON

Tigers' New Portside Rains Killefer's Champ

Curves Duck Seraphs' Bats Like Trained Fleas

League Leaders Drop Second Game of Season

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

History in the thunderous making yesterday bestowed long enough for Los Angeles to lose its second ball game of the season.

It was the Tigers who tossed a wrench into this clash of things cosmic, Vernon winning his third game of the year, and trying the still young series for a count of 2 to 0.

Thus the Angels had the door slammed in their faces for the first time. In other words, they were stumped, which by adding a strong smell to insult and injury, Bill Killefer resorted to deep stuff and scumbled the calendar. He pitched May in April, and the Angels were baffled, from the start. Mr. Jacob May is a stout southpaw long on pitching, and the proud owner of a mystery ball.

MORE STUFF

To the naked eye of everybody except the Angel batters, George Lyons appeared to have a lot more stuff than May, but reality would indicate that this was an optical delusion. Jake showed only a fair curve, but his fast ball certainly must have had something funny on it. Coming up to the plate it looked as large as a two-bit top ball. For the most part the Angels either would let it pass or hit it ineffectively to some wall in the field.

Surprisingly few solid blows were struck off May. That's what makes it a mystery ball. Looks fat, but isn't. His curve and fast ones seemed about equally effective. To an unbiased observer it seemed that the Angels allowed an abnormally large number of good ones to pass across the plate unmolested. Whether they were simply playing a waiting game, or were fooled they refuse to tell. If so, they waited too long or allowed themselves to be fooled too much.

EVEX DUEL

At first glance it strikes one as rather an even duel between May and Lyons, each allowing five hits. But all those bunched off George were double and Jake forced the batters to specialize lightly in singles. May passed two, walked one, and indulged in a wild pitch.

Another Jewel of the Buick Line

"She's a peach."

The NEW 22-54 Special Buick

A Surprise? No—the new Buick Special Six-54 Roadster just lives up to Mr. Valve-in-Head's old maxim:

"When Better Automobiles are Built, Buick will Build Them."

It's a trim, snappy sport model, built on a real foundation—the proven Buick chassis. With everything in its favor, the new Roadster will prove a real answer to the demand for a sport car with stamaine speed, good looks and, best of all, economical upkeep. Beside every comfort and convenience, the new Roadster boasts a tailored top, maroon body, smart nickel-plated equipment, wire wheels and new drum type head lamp.

It's the newest jewel in the Buick family and a sure winner. Seeing is believing.

OLD DOBBIN CRASH VICTIM

Answering a fast call to Elevation and Union streets early last night to investigate a collision between an automobile and a Chinese laundry wagon in which one man was reported killed, Police Detective Vary and Russell found the driver of the vehicle alive and unharmed but the motive power of the laundry wagon null and void. Old Dobbin, who for Hop Lee, proprietor of a laundry at Los Angeles and Winston streets, had plodded the streets for many years, was dead. The driver of the automobile, Leroy J. Hineshart, of 1130 West Tenth street, was arrested by the detectives and placed in the city jail, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. The detective declared they found a two-gallon jug, partly filled with "bootleg," in Hineshart's car.

MARRIAGE OF GIRL IS ANNULLED

Child Bride Declares She Will Wed Again as Soon as She is of Age

Love may laugh at locksmiths, but there were near tears in Judge Sumnerfield's court yesterday when he annulled the marriage of Warren Miller to Beatrice Berg. The teen-ager, speaking in the eyes of Mrs. Miller, was defiant rather than sorrowful. She did not want the marriage annulled, she wanted it to be annulled. "I will marry him as soon as I am of legal age," she declared. "I married him because I loved him. I still love him and he loves me." To prove the truth of her assertion, Mrs. Miller left the courtroom on the arm of her youthful husband, who did not contest the suit which was brought by her father, Earl M. Berg. "Let me find a way," remarked Judge Sumnerfield to Mr. Berg as he granted the decree. "Yes, and I may laugh at locksmiths, but it should not break the laws of the state," Mr. Berg replied. "I want the laws observed, and I brought this suit because my daughter was not of legal age and did not consent to the marriage. I have no objection to my daughter's husband, but it was illegal." Beatrice and Warren were married in China, January 1, last. She admitted she swore she was 18 years old and therefore entitled to be married when, as a matter of fact, she was under that age. But they loved each other, a love that grew after they became acquainted as students of the University of California. Mr. Berg was represented at the annulment proceedings by Attorney Sherman Maine & Thomas.

DEMOCRATS READY TO SURRENDER OFFICES

GROVES AND MITCHELL WANT TO TURN POVER TO REPUBLICANS

Register Groves and Receiver Mitchell of the local Land Office are preparing to turn over their offices to the Republicans as soon as the transfer can be made. Dudley Valentine, who is booked to succeed Groves, has been told by the latter that the place is open to him as soon as he is commissioned. Mr. Mitchell was commissioned June 25, 1914, although he did not take the oath of office until August 1 of that year. He will be succeeded by Brainerd Smith of Pasadena. The receiver of the government money paid by the oil companies under the Pickett law of Federal leasing enactment. All of the employees of the office are under the civil service blanket.

Wife Danced as He Fought, Husband Says

While Harry L. Burns was eating "corned willy" and getting blisters on his feet marching unaided, his wife was dancing during the war, his wife was at home enjoying the attentions of a "physical reject," according to the husband's suit for divorce against Edna M. Burns, filed yesterday.

The husband states that he left his wife and home in Ottumwa, Iowa, Feb. 11, 1918, to join the colors. During his absence until Feb. 11, 1919, his wife kept company, danced and dined with R. Brady, he charges. When he returned from the war, he found his wife had moved to Cedar Rapids, where, he charges Brady sent his wife to live. He says he was sick and her presence needed in Ottumwa. The husband states before he became acquainted with the true purpose of her visits.

Prowler Shot as He Flees from Citizens

Buckshot fired by two civilians provided James Clark, a prowler, with free transportation to the Receiving Hospital and the City Jail yesterday. Clark, 34 years old, was detected in an attempt to force an entrance to the home of Dr. J. D. Lutz, 1447 Coville avenue. The two civilians, William F. Yarnall and his son, of Palm Springs, pursued the suspect with shotguns for several blocks, but their wife in the chase, then stopped him with buckshot. At Receiving Hospital a handful of leaden bullets were extracted from Clark's side and thigh and then he was locked up on a burglary charge.

BEAUTY MARKS HOLY SERVICES

Church Federation Holds Third of Series

Day's Sermon is Preached by Methodist Pastor.

Work in Behalf of Boys and Girls Outlined

Exceptional beauty of expression in song, sermon and prayer marked the third of the Holy Week services conducted yesterday at Berran Hall under the auspices of the Church Federation of Los Angeles. Following congregational songs of gladness, led by Dr. Robert J. Coyne, pastor of the Vernon-avenue Methodist Church, and the rendition of a solo, with arpeggiated accompaniment by L. E. Miller, Rev. M. Howard Fagan of the Willshire-Boulevard Christian Church preached the sermon, "The Measure of a Great Man." In part he said: "It is sometimes good to be great. It is sometimes great to be good. Purity is strength, vice is weakness. I wish that every schoolboy and girl in Los Angeles would take this truth to heart: That it takes more courage, more backbone to live clean and virtuously in a city of sin than it does to go drifting with the tide of evil." "The greatness of Jesus did not consist in His birth, for He was a humble boy; it did not consist in His intellectual achievement, for He never invented a new thing or a new truth, nor did He ever write a poem, book or song; it did not consist in His military achievement, for He was a house of fishermen; nor did His greatness consist in His official position or political power, for He never held office and he was hated by the politicians of His day."

FRIEND TAKES CARE OF MONEY

Daughter's Five Thousand is Returned to Bank

Details of Vault Robbery Told District Attorney

Suspects' Hearing Set for Today by Justice

Additional details regarding the "broadcasting" of a large portion of the $20,000 which William H. McFee, aged 41, guard, and Ray Whitehill, a clerk, are accused of stealing from a safety deposit box of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank, were told yesterday to Deputy District Attorney Turney by J. C. Mullick, Mullick, an acquaintance of Helen Boyd-McFee, the recently adopted daughter of McFee, admitted that he had received $5000 from Miss Boyd-McFee, and explained that he had taken the money to help her, because he thought she was spending money recklessly.

He stated that he met the young woman through an acquaintance with Mrs. La Salle, with whom Miss Boyd-McFee had opened a beauty parlor here.

SPENT LARGE SUMS
He said that in San Francisco Miss Boyd-McFee was spending a lot of money and he advised her to be careful. He said that the young woman told him that her father was "president of a bank," and had given her the money. He advised her to put the money in securities, and she handed him $5000. Mullick said that he kept the money intact and when he learned where it came from he turned it over to the bank. He was stated that Mullick was without knowledge of the source of the money and is now aiding the authorities in every way possible.

HEARING SCHEDULED
McFee and Whitehill are scheduled to have a hearing today before Justice Brown on a charge of grand larceny. They are now in the County Jail, being unable to furnish bail.

The District Attorney's office, under direction of Mr. Woolwine and Chief Deputy Doran and Deputy Turney, is still conducting an investigation regarding the matter the money was used after it was said to have been taken by McFee.

GIRLS' HOME OPENS SALE AS BENEFIT

President Outlines Work Done to Help Friendless Women and Children

Under the direction of Mrs. Henry M. Hurd, the annual April bazaar was opened yesterday afternoon at the Florence Crittenton Home, 211 East Avenue 21. Speaking of the work carried on by the home of which she is the president, and to which the proceeds from the bazaar will go, Mrs. Hurd said:

"Twenty-nine girls and sixteen babies are sheltered in the home at the present time. Any girl or woman, no matter to what creed she belongs, whether she can pay or not, who is found to be a case for this home, is taken in."

A few weeks ago, a girl with a 15-day-old baby in her arms came to the home. She asked if she could leave the baby here while she looked for work. She was very weak. She was told that she was in no fit condition to work. She was taken in with her baby and given proper care. She is now well enough to accept a position. She has written to her mother and told her where she is. The mother has expressed her thanks to the home for caring for her girl."

Assisting Mrs. Hurd, and in charge of tables, were Mrs. C. Bierbauer, Mrs. J. B. Shiffner, Mrs. George Lynch, Mrs. E. B. Dukeman and Mrs. E. B. Dukeman. Vocal selections were given by Mrs. Eugene Patton, accompanied by Mrs. Edna Dierke at the piano.

Many club women attended the opening of the sale.

Wanted Home, Now She Asks Annulment

Virginia Kelsey wanted a home of her own. That was one of the reasons why she married Karl D. Kelsey, it seems.

She believed him, she says, when he told her he had an income of $1500 a month and was able to provide her with the home she desired. So, she became his wife January 31, last.

A few days after the ceremony, she began to realize that something was wrong. Her husband had no money, no position, and took no steps to provide her with a home, she says. She investigated and found, she reports, that he had no income, did not have a position, and consequently could not very well furnish a home. She left him April 4, last.

Yesterday she filed suit for an annulment of her marriage on the ground of fraud, setting forth the foregoing as facts.

Peace Maker in Dog Fight Badly Bitten

Several dogs engaged in a battle royal for the canine leadership of San Fernando Road yesterday afternoon. The fighters objected to attempted mediation by Mrs. Eva Hart, 48 years of age, and included her in the biting orgy. Her ear was badly bitten, according to Police Surgeon Cross. After being attended at the Receiving Hospital she was sent to her home at 5888 San Fernando Road.
